TURKEY'S TROUBLES

The Sultan's Procrastinating Policy Lands Him in an Awkward Position.

Outside Powers at Last Show They Mean Business in Armenian Reforms.

Added to This, Internal Troubles Are Tearing the Ottoman Empire Asunder.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—Halia Rifat Pasha, Turkish minister of the interior, has been appointed grand vizier in succession to Kiamil Pasha, resigned.

The Turkish minister for foreign affairs, Said Pasha, has promised to give the ambassadors of the Powers a definite reply within two days of what steps the Porte intends to take in order to restore order in Armenia and provide for the protection of Christians in that part of the Turkish empire.

This was the point especially alluded to by the ambassadors on Tuesday last, when they called separately, yet identically represented that the present state of affairs in Armenia should not be allowed to continue. If adequate measures were not shortly taken to bring about the restoration of order the Powers would be compelled, acting in concert, to take their own steps in the matter. No combined action of such grave importance on the part of the Powers has been taken for years past. As already cabled, the Porte was reminded of the intervention of the Powers in Syria at the time of the massacre in 1860.

This is considered as a direct warning to the sultan that Europe will restore order in Armenia unless the Turkish government does so promptly. As each day passes, however, the situation becomes more portentious and adds to the difficulty of the task before the Porte, and possibly before the European Powers.

The most alarming reports are in circulation as to the number of Armenians who fell during the recent massacres. Some statements have it that tens of thousands have been massacred. Although this estimate is believed to be much exaggerated, there is no doubt that the situation is much graver than any body here is willing to admit.

From Syria especially the most alarming rumors are coming, and these are supported by the fact that by mobilization only twenty battalions of Redifs out of sixty are available, and steps are being taken to dispatch them as promptly as possible to that portion of Asiatic Turkey. This lends color to the reports that the Armenians are receiving support from unexpected sources, and that the Turkish government may soon be face to face with open and widespread revolt against the rule of the sultan. It is even stated that the Armenians have been successful in a fight with the Turks and that some hundreds of Turkish irregular troops have been captured.

Revolutionary placards are being scattered here almost daily in the streets, and it is well known that the sultan has been threatened with a choice between abdication and assassination. Arrests of Armenian and Turkish suspects are constantly being made here and elsewhere, but the newspapers are so thoroughly under the control of the government that only a few important facts are allowed to leak out.

Possibly the most grave turn of events lies in the fact, established beyond a doubt, that the dissatisfaction against the sultan has extended to the Turkish army and navy, and that the palace officials, well aware of this fact, are in a state of the greatest alarm. Nobody here would be astonished to hear at any moment of an outbreak in the palace itself. In fact, people who are well versed in Turkish affairs assert that this is among the immediate possibilities, and that only a prompt show of force on the part of the European fleets assembled here can avert it.

Trustworthy reports which have been received here from Erzeroum state that it has been established beyond dispute that the Turkish troops took part in the recent massacre and pillage of the Armenians there, and it is added that clear evidence of this fact can be placed before the representatives of the Powers.

Private accounts represent the condition of the Asiatic provinces of Turkey as being deplorable in the extreme. A veritable reign of terror is said to exist, and bloodshed, robbery and rapine are of daily occurrence. The Armenians are reported to be living in hourly expectation of being massacred. The police of this city are kept busy night and day making arrests and watching everybody and everything.

To such an extent is this system of police surveillance carried, that two servants in the employ of English merchants here have been arrested while returning from the postoffice with letters and newspapers. The latter were seized by the police, in spite of the protests of the servants, and carried away to the police department for examination. The English merchants promptly complained to the British charge d'affaires, Hon. Michael Herbert, and the latter made a strong representation to the Porte on the subject. Of course such a state of affairs cannot be allowed to exist much longer as the lives of all Christians in Armenia are in danger and there is hourly expectation of most serious trouble in almost every part of the Turkish empire. The mere calling out of the army reserves will have little or no effect upon the situation, as the Turkish troops cannot be relied upon in such emergency and the wretched condition of Turkish finances bars anything like wholesale energetic action upon the part of the Turkish government, unless a holy war should be proclaimed, and that could only be done by inflaming the religious fanaticism of the Turks against the Christians, which the Porte would not hesitate to do in case of an invasion of Turkish dominions; but such a step would not be calculated to suppress the interior disorders, the basis of which should be the protection of the Christian population of Armenia.

A new Turkish ministry has been formed as follows: Halif Rifat Pasha, grand vizier; Said Pasha, president of the council of state; Tewifk Pasha, minister of foreign affairs; Pashan Pasha, minister of marine; Riza Pasha, minister of justice; Sabri Pasha, minister of finance; Arifi Pasha, without portfolio

DURRANT'S LINE OF DEFENCE

Dickenson Preparing His Bill of Exceptions in the Blanche Lamont Case.

Defence's Motion for a New Trial Will be Made To-Morrow Morning.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—General Dickinson is busily engaged in the preparation of the bill of exceptions which is to be the basis of his motion for a new trial of Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont. He intends paying a visit to his father at Portland, and is desirous that the hearing be had at once, or that the date for argument be set for such a time as will enable him to make the trip in the meantime. The motion for a new trial will be made when Durrant goes before Judge Murphy for sentence to-morrow. Judge Murphy may decide to hear the argument at once, or he may decide to wait until after his vacation, as he intends to take a rest before trying the Williams case. There is a possibility, therefore, that the final end in the Lamont case, so far as the superior court is concerned, will not be reached for some weeks, but it is generally believed that Judge Murphy will be disposed to get rid of the Lamont case for good and all as soon as possible, for it is a foregone conclusion that the motion will be denied. Judge Murphy was exceedingly careful in his rulings, and often gave the defense the benefit of the doubt rather than leave a loophole that would serve as good foundation for such a motion, which was, of course, anticipated.

General Dickinson said that the defense is ready to proceed to trial in the Minnie Williams case at any time and intimated that he had a much stronger defense than in the trial just ended. He said he was not sure that a change of venue would not be asked for, but from his recent expression relative to the state of public opinion, it is practically certain that such a procedure will be adopted. That a change of venue will be granted if asked is very probable, as it would be next to impossible to secure another jury here, and the district attorney has announced that he will offer no opposition to such a motion. For these reasons there is very little likelihood that the Williams case will be tried in San Francisco. General Dickinson, in speaking of the Williams case, said:

"I'll fight this thing to the end, you may belive me," indicating that he would carry Durrant's case or cases to the highest court in the land before he would yield up the life of his client. "Do you suppose we can get witnesses to testify for the defense," he said, "when they know that as soon as their identity is known something will be trumped up against them? Take that man Clark. He went voluntarily to Deuprey and told his story. He believed he was right and he was right, but it was no sooner known that he was to testify for the defense than he was made out an embezzler and everything else that was black, and it was even said that a warrant was out for his arrest. It was all a lie; there was not a word of truth in it, but it kept him from telling what he knew. Lenihan was another instance, and so it went. I tell you, the public mind was so prejudiced against the young man, that those jurymen would not have dared to go home to their wives if they had not convicted him. Talk about a fair trial. There was never a more inhuman travesty on the term, and it will be the same in this case. But I told you we were good to fight and we will show we mean it before we are through."

Pitiable Spectacle of Premier Bowell Pleading With Chapleau to Come Back.

Those Familiar With Politics Will Understand — Chapleau Won't Come.

He Was Made a Tool of Too Long —Dewdney's Visit Significant.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—Premier Bowell is in Montreal pleading with Chapleau to come to Ottawa and save the ship. In view of his political history the spectable is a sad one, and Chapleau must enjoy it, but he refuses to come.

A cabinet council was called for 11 o'clock to-day, but was adjourned until 2 o'clock, on account of the absence of Premier Bowell.

Sir Frank Smith is here on the subject of cabinet reconstruction.

Lieut.-Governor Dewdney arrived this afternoon and will be the guest of Sir C. H. Tupper during his stay here.

SPAIN HAS SURRENDERED

The Cubans' Fight for Liberty Receiving Recognition From Mother Country.

Granting of Autonomy Insisted Upon by Campos—The Insurgents Acknowledged.

New York, Nov. 7.—The Paris correspondent of the World cables the following: "I am able to send you the following authentic translation of copies of official cable dispatches now on file at Madrid:

"To Ministero Ultramar, Madrid.—Referring to your cablegram of October 30th, expressing dissatisfaction at the newspaper interview in which I expressed an opinion that the United States would recognize the Cuban belligerency, I reiterate the statement, and say further if this war is not brought to a speedy termination by granting home rule to Cuba, the United States will surely give aid to the insurgents and espouse their cause sooner or later. I urge that autonomy be granted to the island, believing this to be the only means of ending the struggle without losing many lives and wasting the immense wealth of the island. Martinez Campos."

"To Martinez Campos, Captain General, Cuba.—The question of autonomy is being considered, but there is no fear that the Cubans will not accept it. Ultramar."

A local paper this morning says that an official communication from Martinez de Campos was received at the Cuban headquarters in this city. It is simply a copy of an official order sent to all generals of districts and brigades and is apparently sent as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the Spanish commander. It is evidently meant as a polite intimation that it would be possible to open up relations on a regular war footing.

The opening up of such negotiations would indicate that an exchange of prisoners would follow, certain agreements to be effected, and prisoners on both sides to be treated as soldiers.

According to members of the Cuban junta, in the beginning of the order General Campos apologizes for the necessity of sending it out, but declares that unfortunate comments have been made by the press of all nations in regard to the obvious and apparent misstatements in Spanish official reports of engagements. He says reports of the number engaged and the number killed and wounded are entirely disproportionate and calculated to bring ridicule on the Spanish army.

WESTMINSTER PIONEER DEAD.

Henry Elliott Passes Away Suddenly—Sentences at the Assizes.

New Westminster, Nov. 7.—Henry Elliott, on of the pioneers of British Columbia and the second wealthiest man in the city, was stricken very suddenly last evening and died at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was an Englishman both and sixty ears of age. He leaves a wife and one son and daughter.

W. H. Linn-Brown was tried and found guilty at the assizes of forgery, and was sentenced to one year.

A. W. Presley, Chilliwack, charged with arson, is a free man again. The grand jury returned no bill. The trial of Jimmy Page for murdering Annie, an Indian woman, at Ladners, is proceeding

THE DETROIT DISASTER.

Many Dead Bodies Recovered—Carelessness Undoubtedly Caused the Catastrophe.

Undertakers Fight for Possession of Corpses and the Police Have to Interfere.

Detroit, Nov. 7.—The dead thus far taken from the ruins of the wrecked building are: Lizzie Tappley, Henry Walsh, John J. Reuter, George H. Soule, George Shaw, Willie Hawes, Jas. Ross, William H. Dunlap, Henry Larviere and an unknown boy whose remains were found in the ruins at 4:13, the features being unrecognizable but supposed to be John Bowman.

Of the injured who have been so far rescued from the ruins, over a score in number, many will die. There are still some thirty tenants and employes in the building who are missing, and there can be no doubt that most of these are lying dead under the debris. The wrecked portion of the building, which is owned by the Newbury estate, was separated from the rest of the structure by a fire wall. The first floor of that section was occupied by John Davis & Co., dealers in druggist's specialties, and by the Journal mailing department. The second, third and fourth floors, were occupied by the Davis company, W. H. Dunlop & Co., machinists, and the Miller bookbindery. The editorial rooms of the Journal are on the fourth floor, but situated beyond the fire wall, and the staff escaped injury. The Journal stereotyping room on the fourth floor, was directly in the path of the explosion, and went down in the wreck. A few had miraculous escapes and came staggering from the ruins after the awful shock, scarcely knowing what had befallen them.

From the list of the tenants and employes secured, it seems certain that 50 people in all were in the collapsed section. There are still 27 persons unaccounted for. At every hour reports are received of others who are missing and whose relatives and friends have been unable to find any trace of them. Of those who are now in the ruins, it is impossible that any will be rescued alive. Those who were not killed outright have undoubtedly perished, either from suffocation or exhaustion.

The only hope is that some of those who are reported missing may be safe with friends. The total death rate will not be known before to-morrow night. It may be even longer before the workmen reach the basement floors of the ill-fated building and the total number of lives lost is known to a certainty. The work of removing debris and searching for the bodies is going on all night by aid of electric lights, but the task is a big one.

Carelessness is undoubtedly the cause of this disaster, but upon whom the responsibility rests is yet problematic. Thomas Thompson, the engineer, was painfully injured. He said he could assign no reason for the explosion. City Boiler Inspector McGregor says he inspected the boilers last August and found them to be up to the requirements.

Some of the employes of the building assert that the boilers were old and known to be unsafe.

The most shocking scene attending the accident was a struggle between Coroner Butler and an undertaker employed by Gies Brothers, against Undertaker F. Gibbs. The latter clung to the stretcher while a body was being carried out through the crowd and as the spectators were becoming excited over the ghoulish scene, the police, in the interest of order, rushed Gibbs outside the fire lines, and would not permit him to return.

The rest of the dead are: Carrie Bauer, aged 23, bookkeeper in Miller's factory, body recovered; El Riger; Hattie Miller; Minnie Liese, all three recovered about 1 a.m.

The property loss will be entire for the owners of the building and tenants. The loss on the ruined part of the building is about $20,000. The Evening Journal loses about $10,000. The total loss of the tenants, in addition, is placed at something over $30,000.

The bodies of the following victims were removed from the mass of debris at an early hour this morning: Adolphe Schrieber, jr., bookbinder in Miller's bindery, and John Gordon, electrotyper.

A large force of men are still at work on the ruins and more bodies will undoubtedly be soon recovered.

Later—Twenty-five bodies have already been taken from the ruins of the Journal building, and the search still goes on. In addition to those already reported, the following have been found: Kittie Leonard, M. Rosa Margan, John Brattenbreb, an unknown man, Jennie Niehaus, Ernest Harkins, Thora Weidbusch. Twenty are still missing, swelling the probable list of dead to 40 or 45. Besides these nineteen persons are more or less seriously injured, two of them fatally.

The cause of the disaster has been definitely ascertained as a boiler explosion, but what caused the explosion is still a mystery.

GIRLS CHEWING GUM, BEWARE.

One Swallowed It and Died—Moran's Migratory Heart.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 7.—Frederick Moran, a man with a migratory heart, and a little girl who swallowed chewing gum and died from appendicitis, are two unusual cases that have claimed the attention of the medical profession of this city for some time past. The former case is very rare, though not unknown to medical science, while a case similar to the latter has not been reported in the standard medical works of the day. Frederick Moran is an inmate of the county infirmary and since he has been there his heart has been shifting from one side to the other and has finally wound up on the right side of his body, where it seems to have located a claim with intent to remain permanently. Moran lived in Chicago when this peculiar action of the heart began. It was a restless shifting organ, moving from side to side in a manner most perplexing and confusing to physicians. Mr. Moran found himself having considerable trouble, but he did not imagine that his heart was wandering around in this remarkable fashion. When he came to this coast he settled in Alameda. His heart began wandering from side to side and this so disturbed Mr. Moran's internal arrangements that he became quite sick. He was sent to the county infirmary for treatment and when he got there Resident Physician Clark made a thorough examination of his physical condition. Dr. Clark noted that his heart seemed to be a little out of plumb and he watched the case closely. While Mr. Moran remained in the county infirmary his heart kept on its travels and finally located itself permanently upon the right side. During this time Moran suffered some, but Dr. Clark's treatment prevented any serious results. Moran became accustomed to the new order of things, and he is now to be discharged from the hospital and will go back to work. It is unusual that the heart should shift from one side to the other without causing death. Dr. Clark says that he has only heard of three similar cases, and that the shifting of the heart in Moran's case has been complete.

The death of Ora Lee Carelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Carleton, of West Berkeley, is also a strange medical case. The little girl was about five years of age, but she had the chewing gum habit. Her parents were careful not to allow her gum if they could help it, but the little one often got a supply without their knowledge. Some days ago she was taken sick and it was difficult to tell exactly what was the matter. The sickness developed all the indications of appendicitis and then the little one said that she had been chewing some gum a few days before and had accidentally swallowed it. An operation was performed and the gum removed, but the little one did not survive the shock and died this morning.

LAWYERS VERY BADLY LEFT.

The Fair Will Case Said to be Settled Out of Court.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—A local paper says the Fair will case has been settled out of court, and what promised to be a bitter contest over an estate valued at forty millions, has been abandoned.

LIFE ON A PLEASURE YACHT

Is Shown Up Incidentally in an Insurance Law Suit.

London, Nov. 7.—The trial of the action of Dr. W. Conyers Herring, of New York, to recover $15,000 insurance on the schooner yacht Mohican, which was destroyed by fire at Shoreham, England, in March last, in which the underwriters denied the policy, denied that the yacht was lost, and in the alternative, alleged that the fire was caused by the plaintiff or his agents, was commenced to-day.

Upon cross-examination, Dr. Herring admitted that he was divorced from his first wife, he was subsequently married to Miss Mabel Viola Harris, of Bar Harbor, Maine, and said it was true that on board the Mohican, when she left New York, was a young girl, Letitia Thompson, whom he has been accused of kidnapping. Miss Thompson's mother followed her to Europe in order to rescue her, found her with the Herrings at Southwick, and brought her back. The young woman, however, again left her mother and was found employed as a lady's maid, early in October, on West 65th street, New York City. She was shortly afterwards induced to return to Europe and sailed by the Normannia, on October 10, in order to give testimony in the present suit, and as her mother was opposed to her departure, she was entered on the passenger list as Emma Adams.

A CLERGYMAN SENTENCED.

For the Murder of His Wife—He Protests His Innocence.

Danville, Ind., Nov. 7.—Rev. William E. Hinshaw, convicted of wife murder, was brought into court to-day to be sentenced. Judge Hadley asked whether he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, and the convicted preacher replied in a long speech, in which he declared himself innocent. Although the jury had found him guilty, he said, he cherished no resentment against them or any man. In conclusion he said:

"I desire it to go upon the records of this court, with my hands upon its sacred shrine, my face uplifted to heaven, that the verdict is false; I am not guilty. Before I go to my living burial I wish to thank the court for his kindness at all times. I commend you to God, and will meet you at the judgment bar where I will have another trial, and pass to happiness. I go to my living burial, and as I go I salute you. I am now ready for what may come."

Judge Hadley then pronounced sentence, and Hinshaw was taken back to jail. Hinshaw's voice trembled as he spoke, and it seemed at times as if he would break down. The women in the audience cried, their sobs being the only sounds that broke the silence when he spoke.

BRITISH SCHOOLBOYS' CLUB.

An Attempt to Organize in America British Educated Men.

New York, Nov. 7.—A meeting was held last night for the consideration of the advisability of forming a club in this city, and throughout the country to bring together into one organization residents who have been at British public schools or universities.

The idea has been under consideration for many months, and has been well received by committees in Chicago and in this city.

The organization committee prepared a list of public schools which includes all the schools of greater or lesser fame in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and the colonies, including Canada, India and Australia.

At the meeting no definite action was taken. W. A. M. Goode, of Foyle college, Londonderry, Ireland, made a number of valuable suggestions which will be acted upon by the committee at the dinner which will be given on Saturday. W. Percy Ward, of Rugby, presided, and spoke of the possibilities of such a club in America. In New York there are a number of Americans who have been educated at British public schools and universities, and, as members of these schools, they may be asked to join the club.

The following are the members of the organization in this city: H. P. Rees, of Cheltenham; Jerome Flannery, of the Catholic University, Dublin; Bernard [illegible] of Oxford; M. S. Walker, jr., of Rugby, and W. A. M. Goode.

TWO FARMERS' QUEER TRADE.

"You Gimme Yer Cow, and I'll Give Yer My Wife."

Stroudsburg, Nov. 7.—Philip B. Miller, a mountain farmer a few miles from here, has for a neighbor a man named Harvey Surgen. A few months ago Surgen was the possessor of a wife, while Miller was a bachelor. Miller owned a cow noted for her gentleness and the abundance and quality of her milk. Farmer Surgen had no cow. To possess one was the ambition of his life. The two neighbors were friends and exchanged visits. During one of Farmer Miller's visits he caught a smile from Mrs. Surgen. Women are scarce in that section and Miller envied his neighbor the possession of such a wife, as much as the neighbor envied him for his cow. One evening Miller told Surgen that he loved Mrs. Surgen and asked the husband to name his price for her.

"Gimme yer cow and I'll give yer my wife," said Surgen, promptly.

The bargain was made then and there. Mrs. Surgen packed up her belongings while her husband went over for the cow. All went well for a few months, but now Farmer Miller is in a peck of trouble over his wife. In the past few weeks several mysterious fires have occurred in the vicinity, and last Thursday the school house was fired. Investigation proved, it is said, that Mrs. Miller poured kerosene oil on the books and papers and applied a match to them. So a constable arrested her. She denied all knowledge of the fire, but her little son confirmed the public suspicion. It is said she was provoked by jealousy of the teacher in the school.

MARLBOROUGH MADE FUN OF.

By the English Papers, but He Has Captured a Prize.

London, Nov. 7.—The Standard says that the marriage of the Duke of Marlborough to Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt was celebrated on all the duke's estates and the bells were rung in all the churches where he had property and the employes were given a holiday and dinner.

The newspapers here eagerly printed the reports from New York of the preparations for the wedding, but the Sun, referring to the so-called rehearsal of the ceremony, says: "The rehearsal was essentially American and vulgar. No clergyman would permit it."

The Westminster Gazette this afternoon prints a cartoon headed: "The Duke's Return from the Land of Dollars." The cartoon represents the Duke of Marlborough reclining in the stern of a pleasure boat, with his bride seated on the top of a pile of dollars.

New York, Nov. 7.—All the parties directly interested in the marriage settlement of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt met at the residence of Mrs. Vanderbilt to-day. Blenheim deeds, which date from the reign of Queen Anne, were handed to Mr. Vanderbilt's lawyer to be copied, and a memorandum of the bride's settlement was read and commented upon. All information on the subject of the settlement was refused, and it is said around the hotel corridors that the yearly income Vanderbilt has settled upon his daughter exceeds $250,000.

EUGENE FIELD IS AT REST.

A Very Impressive Funeral Service In Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The mortal remains of Eugene Field were laid to rest in Graceland cemetery this afternoon, after the conclusion of the impressive services at the Fourth Street Presbyterian church. The body was escorted from the residence to the church by a large party of intimate friends; and another large concourse of friends had gathered at the church, which was decorated and draped for the occasion. The floral tributes were very numerous.

The musical service was rendered by the choir, including the hymn, "The Singing in God's Acre," the words of which were written by Mr. Field.

THERE'S TROUBLE BREWING.

The Mining Speculation Fever Has Left a Weak Feeling Everywhere.

New York, Nov. 6.—The Evening Post special financial cablegram to-day is as follows: The Exchange Telegraph says it is just publicly announced on the Paris Bourse that twenty-four hours' delay has been granted to a large Coulisse firm that are in difficulties in their efforts to meet their engagements. It is believed that the difficulties of the firm have been hanging over the market for some time past. The stock markets here opened firmer, but closed flat on the above Paris news. Three or four small failures are expected at the Bourse settlement to-morrow, and possibly the larger firm in question may fail.

Americans were exceptionally steady, but with no business. It is reported in rather a good quarter that of the £8,000,000 of Japanese money at the Bank of England one half may be spent in buying silver, but if this is so the purchase will be so spread as to scarcely affect the market. The remainder of the money is to be applied to payments due in this country before July next year.

Upon a larger volume of business than has been noted for a long time past, to-day's New York stock market, after momentary strength, yielded and continued weak and excited to the close. The opening was active and was favorably influenced by higher prices for Americans in London and by early buying of that account in this market. The bears soon assumed the aggressive on advices of further political and financial complications in Europe, and hammered prices, making special drives at the Industrials, coalers and some of the specialties.

The closing was irregular, with material not losses general in the industrial group.

—For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by all druggists. Langley & Co., wholesale agents, Victoria and Vancouver.

London, Nov. 7.—The Times in its financial article says that the Berlin bankers have agreed upon a loan of £10,000,000 to Russia for conversion purposes. "This indicates," says the Times, "that the situation of the European Bourses is less acute, and it is believed that the affairs of the Paris Coulisse firm, which has failed for £280,000, will be fully arranged."

A Trenton man, Anton Gulden, a prominent German, is in a precarious condition because of blood poisoning caused by shoes overheated by too hard rubbing by the bootblack. Three weeks ago he purchased a pair of Congress gaiters. They were somewhat tight. In order to make the leather soft he freely applied kerosene, then adjusted the shoes and had them shined. The morning was hot and the bootblack worked long and hard to produce a fine lustre. Later in the day his feet pained him, and upon taking off his shoes he found that his feet were swollen and the skin inflamed. The next morning he found that his feet were swollen to frightful proportions, and a physician ascertained that he was suffering from blood poisoning. A man with a swelled head may have his hat brushed; but if there is anything the matter with his feet he should not have his shoes shined.

Weak and Nervous

Whenever the body has been weakened by disease, it should be built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"About two years ago I suffered with a very severe attack of inflammation of the bowels. When I began to recover I was in a very weak and nervous condition, and suffered intensely with neuralgia pains in my head, which caused loss of sleep, and having no appetite, I and weak. Fortunately a friend who had used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit, kindly recommended me to try it. I did so and a perfect cure has been effected. I am now as well as I ever was, and I would not be without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house for anything." Mrs. C. KERN, 215 Manning Ave., Toronto, Ont.

TAMMANY IS TRIUMPHANT

The State and City of New York Are Theirs—Rev. Parkhurst Predicts.

British Papers Discuss Elections—Democratic Re-Action Still in Operation.

New York, Nov. 7.—The more complete returns of yesterday's election in thirteen states of the Union which have been received to-day, emphasize to an even greater degree the Republican sweep which last night's returns pretty well indicated. Not only have the Republicans been successful in their old strongholds, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Iowa, but have even increased their majorities. They have captured the Democratic state of Maryland and the doubtful one of Kentucky.

In New York state the Republicans have maintained their hold upon the legislature and have been generally successful throughout the state outside of New York city, where the protest against the strict enforcement of the Sunday laws gave Tammany a small but important victory.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Henry Parkhurst gave his views of the results of the election of to-day in part as follows: "While deploring the local results of yesterday's election, I am calm and collected, and grateful for the lessons taught by defeat. This defeat is distinctively due to three causes, the only one I care to mention to-day is the intrusion of the excise question. Without discussing the merits of our excise laws, it suffices to say that Mr. Roosevelt and his colleagues would have deserved impeachment if they had not bent every energy of their offices to its enforcement. And what do those who have gone over to Tammany, as a result of that enforcement, expect to gain by it? There will be no relaxation at 300 Mulberry street, even if the mayor will not pull the commissioners from their sworn duty, although it is presumable that he will try to. The honest, law-abiding public expect them to go on as they have been doing and will stand by them to the death. The question, should it be referred to local opinion, it is safe to say that the liquor element of this town would be pummelled into an indistinguishable mass of helplessness and unconsciousness. What, then, do those who have gone over to Tammany as a result of the commissioners' action expect to gain?

"They have encouraged the most thoroughly organized band of political cutthroats the civilized world has ever known, and have the supreme satisfaction of having persuaded the public that they were playing the hypocrite last year when they were shouting against Tammany, and that a pot of beer counts more with them than the decalogue, or their own self-respect. They have harmed the public good, and have done it in a way that makes it less, rather than more, likely that they will be in a situation to pamper their own bellies.

"Nothing has occurred to discourage my hopes, dampen my ardor, or in any way obscure the end toward which I am laboring."

London, Nov. 7.—The Post, Conservative, says in an editorial, to-day, of the elections in the United States: The result confirms the general opinion that the re-action against the Democrats, which was so conspicuous last November, is still in operation. The Democratic success in New York City was truly remarkable and was doubtless partly due to the intolerance to the reforming party.

The Daily News, Liberal, says: The elections are going so markedly in favor of the Republicans that the presidential seat is all but safe for the next year. Tammany's success in New York City is of no real importance and will not stop the reforms.

The Chronicle, Liberal, says: It is quite clear that there is no real Democratic revival. We regret, but are not surprised at the victory of Tammany in New York. It carries an important moral for our too extreme temperance friends.

CAMPOS IS GETTING TIRED.

Reported to Have Offered a Truce to the Cubans.

New York, Nov. 7.—An official has been received here stating that General Campos has offered a truce to the insurgents.

A local paper this morning says, "An official communication from Martinez de Campos, captain general of the troops in Cuba, was received at the Cuban headquarters in this city yesterday. It was simply a copy of an official order sent out to all generals of districts and brigades.

It was apparently sent as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the Spanish commender and evidently as a polite intimation that it would be possible to open up relations on a regular war footing. This would mean that the Cubans would not be treated as bandits, but as foemen of merit.

Catarrh in the Head

Is due to impure blood and cannot be cured with local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured hundreds of cases of catarrh because it purifies the blood and in this way removes the cause of the disease. It also builds up the system and prevents attacks of pneumonia, and typhoid fever.

HE HELPS THE SOCIALISTS.

Emperor William's Tyranny Only Increases His Enemies—Suicide.

London, Nov. 7.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times comments on the immense increase of Socialist votes in the re-ballot in the district of Dortmund, resulting in the return of the Socialist Lutgenau, and says: "This is largely due to the fact that many Centrists supported the Socialist rather than the National Liberal candidate."

This, the Vorwaerts says, is the people's answer to Emperor William's appeal for cohesion against the Socialists, and to the threatened anti-Socialist measures.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—The police to-day confiscated the issue of the Vorwaerts of the present date, on the ground that it contained matter which was calculated to do harm by its publication.

Frankfort-on-Main, Nov. 7.—Herr Lederer, once famous as a singer in Wagnerian opera, and also notable as the first to seize the would-be murderer Kullmann, when he fired and slightly wounded Prince Bismarck at Kissingen July 13, 1874, committed suicide to-day by shooting himself with a revolver. He was driven to the deed by extreme poverty, having lost the savings of his life through the defalcations of the absconding banker Schoenfeld.

ANOTHER TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

This Time Between American, Britain and Japan—A Diplomat's View.

Paris, Nov. 7.—A dispatch has been published from Berlin giving an interview with the ambassador of one of the great powers, in which the diplomat says that a catastrophe can easily be the result of the present situation, and adds that while the crisis in the far east is only a question of time, a great danger might be avoided by the intervention of the United States, Great Britain and Japan. It is impossible, the ambassador is quoted as saying, for the United States to remain neutral, as she cannot abandon the China trade to Russia without a struggle. This is said to be well understood in Japan, and looked upon as explaining the Mikado's recent letter to President Cleveland. This, according to the diplomat, was the first step towards a new international situation which may become a fresh and solid guarantee of peace.

AVOIDED COMPLICATIONS.

A British Minister Accepts Insult in China to Save Trouble.

London, Nov. 7.—A special dispatch from Shanghai, published to-day, says that while the former British minister to Pekin, Sir N. R. O'Connor, who has been appointed British minister to Russia, and his family were leaving Peaks, their boat collided at Tung Chow with a craft filled with Chinese soldiers; a scuffle is said to have ensued in which sticks were freely used. Other soldiers on the river bank jointed in the disturbance by heaving rocks. The matter, it appears, was hushed up in order to avoid complications.

CHOLERA REPORTED CEASED.

In Hawaii, According to Latest Advices—All Quiet in Samoa.

Auckland, New Zealand, Nov. 7.—According to mail advices received here to-day from Honolulu, cholera has ceased entirely in Hawaii, and the port is clear from infection.

Advices received at the same time from Samoa announce that all is quiet there.

DIRE DISTRESS PREVAILS.

Among the Poor People of Newfoundland—A Boy's Rash Act.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 7.—The Herald prints a series of letters from correspondents along the south and west coast to the effect that dire distress prevails among the poorest class of people residing there, especially those receiving pauper relief. The retrenchment policy of the government necessitated the cutting off half of the pauper grant, and, the fishermen being poor, many find themselves in wretched circumstances. The correspondent predicts starvation in numerous instances, unless prompt help is supplied.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7.—Herbert D. Morris, a medical student who had been attending the Buffalo dental college, committed suicide by shooting himself through the breast here last night. Morris had failed to pass his examination, and his father scolded him. He had evidently taken this to heart, and determined on his rash act. He had tried to buy poison at three different places, but had been refused it. Morris is 20 years of age.

—The only permanent cure for chronic catarrh is to thoroughly expel the poison from the system by the faithful and persistent use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This wonderful remedy proves successful when all other treatment has failed to relieve the sufferer.

—One always feels more satisfied in making a selection from a "large assortment," especially when that assortment comprises the "latest goods." Such an assortment can be seen at Weiler Bros.

It is the privilege of posterity to set matters right between those antagonists who, by their rivalry for greatness, divided a whole age.—Addison.

PROGRESS OF THE STRIKE

Business Men Generally Provoked and Disgusted With the State of Affairs.

Strike as it Affects California—Labor Organizations Unusually Active of Late.

Devil's Lake, N. D., Nov. 7.—Since the strike was ordered no freight trains have departed, and but one has arrived. The latter was a limited one from the east. Passenger trains are not interfered with. Mayor Kelly and the city council are determined that no such disgraceful scenes as were enacted in the last strike shall occur. The business men generally are provoked and disgusted with the state of affairs. The elevators are full to their capacity with wheat, and unless cars are furnished promptly they will not be able to take in more grain, which will cause complete stagnation in business, and jobbers will feel its effects, as country merchants will be unable to meet their obligations at maturity. The strikers are quiet and orderly, and have made no action towards interfering with their fellow employes. The men simply refuse to answer the calls. They seem to be determined.

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—There are some threatening aspects of the Great Northern strike situation which lead to a belief that the strike may become general among the A. R. U. men on this system by to-morrow. The discharge of Engineer William Best, the hero of the Hinckley fire at West Superior, is very distasteful to the men. Best was the president of the A. R. U. at that point and a member of the grievance committee.

P. P. Shelby, assistant general traffic manager of the Great Northern, yesterday received a dispatch that trains were running on time, and that there would be no danger of delay. The men are said to have acknowledged that there was no grievance, and the trouble that has arisen is traced to the discharge of certain dishonest employes for "knocking down."

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—The threatened strike of the employes of the Great Northern company has caused no little comment among local railway men, and especially among members of the A. R. U. The dissatisfaction of the Hill men has a peculiar significance in this city, Oakland and Sacramento, inasmuch as it is generally admitted that on the success or failure of a strike on the Great Northern railway system at this time hinges the future of all organized railway labor west of the Missouri river. Incidentally it may be said that on the Southern Pacific railway system there has been unusual activity of late on the part of the labor unions. Within the past month it is officially declared by the local American Railway Union officers that nine lodges of that order have been successfully organized on the Pacific coast. All this work has been effected through the instrumentality of James Hogan, of Salt Lake City, who is the general western representative of Eugene V. Debbs and one of the nominees for congress in the coming election in Utah on the people's party ticket. Hogan, it is said, has three delegates in this state, who have reported to him that the American Railway Union sentiment is stronger than ever on the coast and have promised within three months to bring almost every railroad employe in California and Oregon into the camp.

A meek looking stranger, with a distinctly ministerial air, applied for permission to look over a large rubber manufactory. He knew nothing at all about the rubber business, he said, and after a little hesitation he was admitted. The superintendent showed him about in person, and the man's questions and comments seemed to come from a person of the densest ignorance. Finally when the grinding room was reached he lingered a little, and asked in a hesitating way: "Couldn't I have a specimen of that curious stuff for my cabinet?" "Certainly," replied the superintendent, although it was a compound the secret of which was worth thousands of dollars: "certainly, cut off as much as you wish." With eager step the visitor approached the roll of gum, took out his knife, wet the blade in his mouth, and—"Stop right where you are," said the superintendent, laying a heavy hand upon the stranger. "You are a fraud and a thief. You don't learn in a pulpit that a dry knife won't cut rubber." So saying, he showed the imposter to the door, and the secret was still safe.—Indianapolis Rubber World.

THE NATIVE BORN.

We're drunk to the Queen, God bless her!
We're drunk to our mother's land,
We've drunk to our English brother
(But he does not not understand);
We've drunk to the wide creation
And the Cross swings low to the dawn—
Last toast, and of obligation,—
A health to the Native-born!

They change their skies above them
But not their hearts that roam!
We've learned from our wistful mothers
To call old England "home."
We read of the English sky-lark,
Of the spring in the English lanes,
But we screened with the painted lories
As we rode on the dusty plains!

They passed with their old-world legends—
Their tales of wrong and dearth—
Our fathers held by purchase
But we by the right of birth!
Our heart's where they rocked our cradle,
Our love where we spent our toil,
And our faith and our hope and our honor,
We pledge to our native soil!

I charge you charge your glasses—
I charge you drink with me
To the men of the Four New Peoples
And the Islands of the Sea—
To the last least lump of coral
That none may stand outside,
And our own good pride shall teach us
To praise our comrade's pride.

To the hush of the breathless morning
On the thin, tin crackling roofs,
To the haze of the burned back-ranges
And the drum of the shoeless hoofs—
To the risk of a death by drowning,
To the risk of a death by drought—
To the men of a million acres
To the Sons of the Golden South.

To the Sons of the Golden South (Stand up!)
And the life we live and know
Let a fellow sing o' the little things he cares about
If a fellow fights for the little things he cares about
With the weight of a single blow!

To the smoke of a hundred coasters,
To the sheep on a thousand hills,
To the sun that never blisters,
To the rain that never chills—
To the land of the native springtime,
To our five-mast meat-fed men,
To the tall deep-bosomed women,
And the children nine and ten!

And the children nine and ten (Stand up!)
And the life we live and know
Let a fellow sing o' the little things he cares about
If a fellow fights for the little things he cares about
With the weight of a two-fold blow!

To the far-flung, fenceless prairie
Where the quick cloud-shadows trail,
To our neighbor's barn—in the offing—
And the line of the new-cut rail.
To the plough in her league-long furrow
With the grey lake gulls behind—
To the weight of a half year's winter
And the warm wet western wind.

To the home of the floods and thunder,
To her pale dry healing blue—
To the lift of the Great Cape combers
And the smell of the baked Karroo,
To the gravel of the sliming stamp-head—
To the reef and the water-gold,
To the last and largest Empire,
To the map that is half unrolled!

To our dear dark foster mothers
To the heathen songs they sung—
To the heathen speech we babbled
Ere we came to the white man's tongue.
To the cool of our deep verandahs—
To the blaze of our jewelled nights,
To the night, to the palms in the moonlight,
And the fire-fly in the cane!

To the hearths of our people's people—
To her well-ploughed windy sea,
To the hush of our dread high-altars
Where the Abbey makes us We.
To the grist of the slow-ground ages
To the gain that is yours and mine—
To the Bank of the Open Credit,
To the Power-house of the Line!

We've drunk to the Queen—God bless her—
We've drunk to our mother's land;
We've drunk to our English brother
(And we hope he'll understand)
We've drunk as much as we're able
And the Cross swings low to the dawn
Last toast—and your foot on the table!—
A health to the native born!

A health to the Native-born (Stand up!)
We're six white men arow
All bound to sing o' the little things we care about
All bound to fight for the little things we care about
With the weight of a six-fold blow!
By the might of our cable-tow (Take hands!)
From the Orkneys to the Horn
All round the world (and a little loop to pull it by)
All round the world (and a little loop to pull it by)
All round the world (and a little strap to buckle it)
A health to the Native-born!

DEATH OR DETHRONEMENT

Is Offered to the Sultan, as the Turks Are Tired of Despotic Rule.

The Sublime Porte is on the Eve of a Great Crisis Through Armenian Troubles.

London, Nov. 7.—A Vienna dispatch to the Standard says: "The Porte has replied to the representations of the Powers that the reserves are being summoned to stop the outrages upon Armenians. The Powers, however, consider that these measures are inadequate."

The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard says: "It was to-day rumored that European action is imminent. A great Moslem demonstration was announced for last Friday but the Sultan, fearing the consequences, notified the Turkish newspapers of his intention to proclaim a constitution, whereupon the demonstration was countermanded. The Sultan then ordered the papers not to publish the announcements, and arrests began to be made. Last evening the police raided the Turkish quarter of Sedik Pasha, a fight ensued and several persons were killed. A fresh crop of revolutionary placards were scattered broadcast to-day. Even at the Porte a letter was found on the Sultan's table giving him the alternative of abdicating or assassination.

Reports are reaching the embassies from all directions of wholesale massacres, and the victims now include Greeks and Maronites.

The report is gaining ground, even in diplomatic circles, that the Sultan has ordered the extermination of the Armenian race. The excitement is spreading to Syria, Bagdad and Mosul.

A dispatch to the Daily News from Constantinople fully confirms the foregoing, and adds that the British consul, Mr. Hampson, telegraphs from Sassoun that the distribution of relief has ceased there and that the missionaries have been obliged to leave.

"The embassies do not make any secret of the fact," the Daily News correspondent adds, "that throughout Armenia disorder is rampant and that the lives of Christians are in danger. It is asserted that several military students at the Pancaldi academy have been arrested as revolutionists."

The Chronicle's Constantinople dispatch contains similar serious statements and says: "One of the oldest English residents who has business agents throughout the empire informs me that the situation is worse than anything he has known for the past forty years. The number of the killed must not be reckoned by hundreds, or by thousands, but by tens of thousands, and reports from Syria declare that the Armenians have been massacred under direct orders from the government."

A Berlin dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says that news has been received of an important success by the Armenian rebels, they having in one place defeated the Turkish troops and captured hundreds of prisoners.

The Armenian committee in London have received a telegram confirming the stoppage of relief which was forwarded by them to be distributed in Armenia.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—The ministers and Sir Edward Vincent, governor of the Imperial Ottoman Bank, have assembled at the palace to consider the financial crisis. Sir Edward Vincent has been financial adviser to the Turkish government for a dozen years past, and it was through his energies that Egyptian finances were restored to prosperity.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Times, in reference to the anti-dynastic movement, declares that the discontent and dissatisfaction are widespread, not less in the army and navy than elsewhere, and are the cause of dismay in palace circles and of a feeling of impotence at the Porte.

Kiamil Pasha, the Grand Vizier, has resigned.

"AN OBJECT LESSON."

A few days ago the Columbian announced the arrival at New Westminster of a wealthy farmer from La Conner, Washington, who has taken a farm on the Fraser and has brought with him a substantial equipment of stock, etc. This gentleman was further described as "the pioneer of a large colony of Washington farmers" who intend to move over to British Columbia, "their principal reason for emigrating being the ruinously low figure at which they are obliged to sell their produce." This is seized upon by the News-Advertiser as the best possible "object lesson in regard to the political issues which are now receiving the attention of the Dominion electors; a most convincing proof of the soundness of the National Policy—in the protection which it affords to Canadian producers against foreign competition." Further along in its outburst of admiration for the N. P. the News-Advertiser says: "These facts are important, because it shows that it is not dire necessity which causes these people to expatriate themselves. They show also that they are shrewd, thrifty men because otherwise, with the adverse circumstances which they had had to meet, they would have dissipated the property which they had accumulated in more prosperous times. We may, therefore, fairly assume that they not only realize that under the present conditions existing in Washington they cannot carry on agricultural operations with any profit but that they see no reason to believe things are likely to improve in the future." The esteemed News-Advertiser seems to be going a little too fast for careful consideration of the facts. One of the "present conditions existing in Washington" is a very high tariff, which gives a much greater degree of "protection" to home agricultural products than is to be found in Canada. In other words, there is much bigger N. P. in Washington than in British Columbia. How is it that this Washington wall has not kept the Washington farmer prosperous at home instead of allowing him to be driven away to another country for a living? If there is any magic in a high tariff the neighboring state should not lose any of its citizens through lack of prosperity. It seems to us that the flight of farmers from high protection to lower protection is an object lesson that the News-Advertiser has somewhat misread.

It is rather significant that the present members of the Bowell government feel unable to save themselves from political drowning and are calling on Mr. Chapleau to act the part of life-preserver. If Mr. Chapleau consents, his efficiency in this line will be at least very doubtful, in spite of his personal strength in a portion of Quebec province. It happens that Quebec province is not the point of greatest danger to the government, and outside of that area Mr. Chapleau's name would not be a good one to conjure with. That is why the former Conservative leader from the Montreal district would be weak as compared with Mr. Laurier. Mr. Chapleau is shrewd, and it will seem rather strange if he consents to reunite his fortunes with those of a party too heavily weighted to float even with his assistance. He is well out of the mess now, wherefore he is likely to stay out. Whether he does or not the situation will be practically the same; the most he could accomplish would only be a slight softening of the government's fall.

Theodore Roosevelt is credited with the following aphorism: "The fact is familiar to every student of history, as well as to every practical politician, that when conscientious men act in a silly manner they may be quite as noxious as the basest foes of good government. Common sense without conscience will at all times breed criminality; but conscience without common sense may also at times breed a folly which is but the handmaid of criminality." Mr. Roosevelt has probably concluded from Tammany's victory that there were too many men around New York on Tuesday with conscience but no common sense, and also too many of common sense who had no conscience to guide them.

PREVOST'S TRIAL.

He Will To-morrow Elect to Be Tried by Speedy Trials.

J. C. Prevost will come up in the supreme court to-morrow to elect to be tried by Speedy Trials. He formerly elected to be tried by a jury, but has changed his mind. When the trial takes place the Hon. A. N. Richards will appear for the prosecution, although it is understood that Prevost will plead guilty.

THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Completion of the Exterior Stone Work Celebrated To-day.

The whole of the exterior stone work of the main portion of the new parliament buildings being completed, the contractors, Messrs. McGregor & Jeeves, invited the members of the government and others to be present to lay the last stone in the dome that towers above the main building. Among those present were Hon. D. M. Eberts, Hon. G. B. Martin, Hon. Col. Baker, Capt. John Irving, M.P.P., Col. Wolfenden, the contractors, and the architect, F. M. Rattenbury. The Union Jack was hoisted and congratulatory speeches made by those present, the contractors and the architect being commended for the energy and dispatch in pushing the work so rapidly. The architect is thoroughly satisfied with the work done and highly pleased with the push shown by the contractors. The dome is already eleven feet high, to which will be added a copper covering fifty-two feet high.

MR CARPENTER CRITICISES.

Something He Knows Very Little About and Makes Many Mistakes.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—A. Carpenter, formerly editor of the Alaskan, has just returned from the north and says the people of that territory are in a fever of excitement over the boundary.

Mr. Carpenter has been in Alaska for two years, and is familiar with the boundary question. He stigmatizes the attempt of the Canadian surveying party to locate the line according to their charts as a grab-up of England's.

The great scheme of England, he says, besides the natural greed for the gold of the Yukon, is to establish a coaling station and port of entry on the Alaskan coast, so that she may occupy a position of vantage in the event of an Oriental war, or trouble between Great Britain and Russia.

STRIKERS RESTRAINED.

From Interfering in Any Way With the Running of Trains.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 7.—The strike situation on the Great Northern took a new turn last night. Judge Hanford, sitting at Walla Walla, issued an injunction restraining the strikers from interfering in any manner with the property of the company, or in the running of the trains.

TIMOTHY HEALY DEPOSED.

From the Executive of the Anti-Parnellite Party—Sealers Seized.

London, Nov. 7.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Irish National League this afternoon, on the motion of Mr. T. P. O'Connor, it was decided to remove Mr. Timothy Healy from the executive committee, on account of his action in July last. When at the County Tyrone National Convention Mr. Healy accused John Dillon of selling Tyrone to the English party. When the motion passed Mr. Michael Davitt, anti-Parnellite, for South Mayo, was elected to fill the vacancy.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 7.—A dispatch to the Novoe Vremya from Vladivostock says that the Russian warship Yakut has captured seventeen foreign sealers in the Sea of Okhotsk, all having slaughtered seals on board. One schooner chased by the warship succeeded in escaping.

Aden, Nov. 7.—Dr. Donaldson Smith, of Philadelphia, the African explorer, arrived here on Monday last from Mombasa. He is en route home.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

County Court was held this morning by Mr. Justice Drake. The list was a small one and was concluded before luncheon.

John Watt sued John Durance, of the West Saanich road, for wrongful seizure and sale of three pigs. The defendant seized the plaintiff's pigs and sold them, but failed to give the proper notice required by the Mischievous Animals Act. The evidence showed that verbal notice had been given instead of a written one. Judgment for the plaintiff for $38. C. D. Mason for plaintiff and J. A. Aikman for defendant.

In Collinson v. Rudd the plaintiff, W. T. Collinson, of Pimper's Pass, sued J. Rudd of Galiano Island, for $20, the balance due for a skiff sold defendant. Some time ago Rudd acted as caretaker of plaintiff's place, and for such services put in a counter claim of $48. Judgment went for the plaintiff for $20 and the counter claim was dismissed. J. A. Aikman for plaintiff.

A CLEVER PERFORMANCE.

The Little Folks Give a Charming Presentation of "The Tyrolean Queen."

Mrs. Bridges and Mrs. Wilkes have good reason to be proud of the success which was scored last evening with the operetta "The Tyrolean Queen." It was remarkable to see a body of children ranging in age from 3 years old to 14 so well drilled and disciplined in their solos duets, quartets, and choruses as were the little ones last night. An audience is usually inclined to get tired at a children's performance, but last night, in spite of the length of the opera, not one person left the hall until after the National Anthem was sung.

The leading roles were taken by Miss Edith Lombard and Miss Frances Fraser as the Gypsy Queen and Fairy Queen. Miss Lombard has a very sweet voice, which promises with training to become a valuable acquisition to musical circles; her manners were graceful, and she seemed to feel the interpretion of her part. Miss Fraser likewise did full justice to her role. The young lady who was to take the role of the Fairy Queen being taken ill a short time ago, Miss Fraser was made to fill the vacancy and personate both the Gypsy and Fairy Queens. For one so young, being only 12, one can realize the enormous amount of work she had to perform, and she did it with great credit to herself and teachers. She has a clear voice, which carries well and every word she says can be heard distinctly.

Among the principal gems were a quartette by the Misses A. and D. Bridges and Hitchcock and Master Merryfield; a duet, "Chink-a-Link" by Misses A. Weber and F. Brune; a solo, "Who shall be our Queen" Miss E. Carroll; solo, "There is the Crown," Miss Hitchcock. Miss Nellie Lombard, with her dog "Jim," also received a share of applause, as also did Masters Leonard and Jack Lombard. The two little pages, Percy Grinelle and Ernie Turner, were simply pictures of sweetness. The choruses were splendid, and evidenced the great amount of labor gone through. The scenery, under the charge of M. Rene Quentin, was grand, and the only regret is that the stage is too small for greater effects. The scene of the fairy palace in the 3rd act, was a perfect gem and establishes Mr. Quentin as an artist of no little merit.

This evening the Vice-Regal party will attend, and the performance will begin at 8 o'clock sharp. The public are therefore requested to be early in attendance. Between the 2nd and 3rd act a drill by 12 young ladies was a great success, as also a hornpipe dance by Misses Alice Marteaud, Rena Roche and Dolly Bebi, the latter being very much enjoyed.

—For two days the police have not had a case to present in the police court, and outside the Mattie Crowe case everything has been quiet in their line. To-morrow Tax Collector Carter will lay before the magistrate the charge against eight citizens, who have failed to pay their revenue and road taxes.

—A runaway, which came within an ace of being serious, occurred yesterday. The horse started from Meston's carriage works and jumped on to the sidewalk in front of the old Methodist church. A lady who was on the sidewalk barely had time to get out of danger.

—At the meeting held at Sluggett's, West Saanich road, a resolution was passed in favor of establishing a creamery in Saanich. Speeches were delivered by Messrs. Chandler and Stevens, and Mr. J. Sluggett occupied the chair. There will be another meeting at Colquitz this evening.

—Officer McKenna returned yesterday from Salt Spring Island with a man named Booth, who has been acting in a queer manner. Yesterday he was examined for insanity by Dr. George Duncan. He is of opinion that the man is insane. Another doctor will examine him to-day, and if he is of the same opinion, the unfortunate man will be sent to the asylum. Booth imagines that he has a claim against the United States government.

—Victoria West lodge, No. 29, I. O. G. T., held their regular meeting last evening, when the following officers were installed by L. D., R. Semple: C. T., W. Furman; V. T., Miss J. Semple; Sec., A. Semple; Treas., Mr. Patton; Chaplain, Mrs. R. Semple; Marshal, Mr. Hatcher; Deputy Marshal, Mrs. Cherry; Guard, C. Waller; Sentinel, Mr. Blackburn; P. C. T., D. McDonald. Next Wednesday the newly installed officers will entertain the lodge.

—James Meldram was thrown from his carriage yesterday afternoon and received serious injuries about the head. He was driving along the West Saanich road, just beyond Stevens', when the horse became unmanageable and ran away. Mr. Meldram was unconscious when picked up. He was brought to town and the wounds dressed by Dr. Frank Hall. Although the wounds about the head and face are serious, the doctor does not anticipate any danger. The horse ran right into town.

—The new fire hall at Oaklands is now ready for occupation, and to-morrow Chief Deasy will place a hand hose reel and 400 feet of hose in the building. On Tuesday evening next the volunteer fire department of the district will meet in the hall, elect officers and complete organization. Although they will not have much apparatus the company should be well able to cope with fires in the neighborhood. Five hydrants have been placed in position and being connected directly with the Cook street main, will give them good force.

SINGLE TAX CLUB

Discussion on Private Property in Land at Last Night's Meeting.

There was a public meeting of the Single Tax Club last night in the Temperance Hall. Dr. Ernest Hall presided and opened by calling upon Master Johnson, who sang with great effect the song "That Tired Feeling," eliciting the hearty applause of his audience.

Dr. Hall read part of the single tax platform and commented upon its provisions, then read the following question for debate: "Is private property in land justifiable?" The doctor said he knew there were quite a number in the audience who believed in private ownership of land, and hoped some of them would take the platform to defend their views, and as no one volunteered to come forward, he called upon some by name, but after a rather long pause, during which no one seemed willing to support the affirmative side of the question, the chairman called for the negative, when Mr. W. Berridge took the platform and read the following resolution: "Resolved—That in the opinion of this meeting there is and can be no just title to an extensive possession of the soil, and that private property in land is a bold, bare, enormous wrong, like that of chattel slavery."

Mr. Berridge stated that the resolution was taken from the third chapter of "Progress and Poverty," by Henry George. He then read at length from Herbert Spencer's "Social Statistics," written in 1850, and said no stronger denunciation of private property in land was ever made than that of Spencer in the work referred to; for he showed by irrefutable argument that no one ever did or ever can possess a title to private ownership of land—stating among other things that all such titles were founded on violence or fraud, and that what is founded in wrong can never grow into a right. Mr. Berridge made many strong points in support of the single tax as an effectual cure for all the injustices that obtain through the monopoly of land. He closed by urging upon all present the study of economic principles, affirming that if the present wrongs are not soon righted in a peaceful way, there will inevitably be serious troubles—perhaps civil war, for as long as the present system remains there can be no security to society, such as comes from a just and equitable form of government.

The resolution was seconded by J. Mallett in a few words favoring the single tax as the only remedy for evils resulting from our present system of taxation.

Ald. Macmillan also spoke in support of the resolution, and cited cases where many who have large buildings upon leased land have suffered, and are still suffering, from the present hard times, for their obligations in the shape of rent upon the land are the same as in good times, while their incomes from rents on the buildings has so fallen off that they are in hard straits to keep their heads above water. Under the single tax, he said, such hardships would not exist, for the state would be the landlord and would never demand more than the rental value of the land. Ald. Macmillan answered in a satisfactory manner several of the questions sent up relative to the operation of single tax principles, and scored many points which want of space forbids enumerating.

After his remarks the chairman put the question to a vote and it was carried unanimously, after which the meeting was closed by a song from Miss Johnson, with piano accompaniment.

AN HISTORIC SOUVENIR.

Old Print of Sir Harry Burrard Presented to the Provincial Library.

Capt. Hamilton, recently from England, has presented to the library of the legislative assembly an old and rare print of Sir Harry Burrard, after whom Burrard Inlet was named by Capt. Geo. Vancouver. It bears the following inscription: "Sir Harry Burrard Neale, Bart., K.G.C.B., from an original picture by Sir. W. Beechy, R.A., in the possession of Earl Vincent." The date of the print is 1822. Capt. Hamilton, in view of his coming to British Columbia secured the above after a good deal of difficulty through the kind services of Mr. Crozier (a nephew by marriage of Sir H. Burrard), of Hampshire, Eng., and states in a letter accompanying the gift that Mr. Crozier "was much interested in the thought that it would be valued by those who realize what a beautiful harbor it is that is called after this great and brave admiral who was a personal friend of King George III., and who won many sea fights and suppressed a mutiny at the Nore."

Capt. Hamilton further remarks that "Vancouver called Burrard Inlet after my friend Sir Harry Burrard of the 'Royal Navy,' but I do not find any reason for the statement made in a recent government guide book, issued at Ottawa that Sir Harry Burrard entered the inlet which bears his name while in command of the tender Chatham, one of Vancouver's ships." Some interesting letters accompany the print.

POLICE HAVE A CLUE

They Have Their Suspicions as to the Man Who Murdered Mattie Crowe.

Edward Rohrig, Who Was Detained, Released Yesterday Afternoon.

There is a possibility that the man who murdered Mattie Crowe, and probably Cape Mudge Sally as well, will be brought to justice. Edward Rohrig, upon whom suspicion at first rested, was last evening released from custody, the story told by him at the inquest being considered quite satisfactory. Now the police are working upon a clue, which although very faint, gives them some hope of finding the guilty party. What this clue is, they, of course, will not say, as it may be some days, if at all, before they will be able to make an arrest. Detectives Perdue and Palmer are at work on the case.

The woman was undoubtedly murdered after midnight. Stedman saw her on the sidewalk at 12 o'clock, and Rohrig says her bedroom door was closed when he went to bed between 11 and 12 o'clock, while it was open when he got up in the morning. The murder, therefore, must have been committed while Rohrig was asleep, and as the partitions between the rooms are very thin, the murderer must have done his work quietly, although Rohrig went to bed under the influence of liquor and no doubt slept soundly. The woman was not known to have any enemies, in fact she was a small, frail and harmless individual, and no doubt, as the evidence went to show, the motive was robbery. Everything points to this, the open hand satchel; the bureau drawers ransacked and the woman's stocking turned inside out. But the murderer got very little. She had little or no money, and although she owned some handsome jewellery most of it is in the pawnshops.

If the man the police suspect is not the murderer, the guilty party is no doubt by this time well out of the way. He had all day Tuesday and Wednesday to put some distance between himself and the police, as very little could be done until after the inquest, or at least the post mortem examination had been held. This was over twenty-four hours after the crime had been discovered. In cities where such matters are well regulated, the post mortem examination and inquest are held immediately after the discovery of the body, and the police then have the advantage of the evidence obtained by the doctors and that given at the inquest.

The verdict brought in by the jury last evening was as follows:

"That the deceased woman, Mattie J. Smith, otherwise known as Mattie Crowe, came to her death from strangulation between the hours of 11:30 p.m. on Monday and 8 a.m. on Tuesday of this week, at her home at 27 Discovery street, but whether her fatal injuries were then and there self-inflicted or otherwise we have not sufficient evidence before us to decide."

HALL CAINE LIKES US.

The English Novelist Enthusiastic Over Canada and Her Future.

The Freshness of the Field Has a Great Fascination for Him.

Hamilton, Oct. 31.—At a dinner given to Mr. Hall Caine in this city the British novelist gave expression to his enthusiasm over what he has seen of Canada and of what he hopes from it for the British empire. He said:

I understand that the chief object of the Canadian club is to keep alive the spirit of Canadian independence. That is an aim with which every Englishman must needs sympathize. You will not be any the better Englishmen for being bad Canadians. Neither will you be good Canadians for being bad Englishmen. I believe in the value of the national spirit always. The "universal brotherhood of man may be a beautiful dream, but it seems to be a dream that is troubled with many nightmares. The best form of universal brotherhood that has thus far been discovered is that which makes its reckoning first of all with the other sex; and the truest form of annexation which goes on between the brotherhood of one nation and the brotherhood of another is the annexation of beautiful sisters. If ever the nations come to break down the borders that divide them, it will not be because of any intellectual perception of the mere commercial advantages of union, but because the family of man has become a real family, bound together by the visible bonds of blood, that carries its veins and arteries into every household. Until that time comes, until your children are as much American children as Canadian children, you will remain Canadians. And it is because the vein of blood goes in another direction, because the stream flows back through your fathers and your fathers' fathers, that you are Englishmen, and intend to remain Englishmen as long as Canada may last.

But these are high matters, sir, with which it is presumptuous in a visitor to attempt to deal, most of all when he is not a man of affairs, but only one of the irresponsible Bohemians, the tribe of nomads, the race of wandering gypsies, whom the world calls novelists. And that name suggests that I should tell you how Canada strikes me from the novelist's point of view. It strikes me as a field having immense possibilities. From the point of nature it is profoundly impressive. Its great forests, its mighty waters, its vast oceanic plains, these affect my imagination profoundly. I shall never forget them. The vision of these great things shall follow me home, and remain printed on that sensitized plate within where all great impressions are stamped. It is right that a man should love his native land and think it the loveliest spot on earth, whatsoever it may be. There is a mysterious call to a man's heart that comes from the soil that gave him birth.

This spirit—a spirit distinct from patriotism, and yet a part of it—this great love of the land that is the land of home—has curious, humorous and pathetic manifestations sometimes. I remember when I was travelling in Iceland I was riding one day over the lava plains which stretch between the capital of Rekjavik and the sulphur mines at Krusvik, with my guide, an old Icelander, jogging by my side. It was a desolate scene. Not a house anywhere, not a sign of life, not a bush or bough, not a bird in the air, not a living creature on the earth. Only miles on miles of hard baked lava, with great fissures and yawning mouths, resembling raves, like a vast cemetery of the olden time left behind by man and forgotten. And as I looked around I asked myself if it could be that God had ever meant that mar should live on so desolate a spot. With these feelings I turned to old Jonas, the guide, and said:

"Have you any children?"

"No," he answered.

"No wife?"

"No."

"Nobody at all?"

"Nobody."

"I suppose, now, you would like to go away and live among the Icelanders near Winnipeg, in Canada?"

The old man paused, then shook his head and answered, in a thickening voice:

"I couldn't leave the old country; it's the fairest land the sun shines upon."

You have better reasons for thinking Canada the fairest land the sun shines upon, but the beauty and grandeur of your natural scenes are not more attractive to the novelist than the freshness of your life as a people. You are the youngest among the nations. There is a fascination about your youth. All your future is before you. God only knows what the next hundred years may bring to pass—what vast cities may spring up on your prairies, what part you may play in the life of this vast continent. It cannot be but that it is a privilege to have been born in Canada. I trust your young men are alive to the advantage they have over their English cousins in being born here and now. The scene on which they are going to play their part is tremendous. If they have greatness in them surely it must appear. Canada wants good men of all kinds, but above all it wants great men. I have seen no place in the world that has left so strong an impression on my mind that their high talents and strong character will carry everything before them. That is not to say that there is now any lack of either, but only that your country is young and of immense resources, and that her possibilities are hardly touched as yet. If I had my life to begin over again and could choose the scene of it, I do not know whether, considering the chances of success or the opportunities of usefulness, I should not begin it in Canada. Perhaps you want good lumbermen more than good novelists, but it is a vast advantage to be the first novelist of a new nation. You have already many able and most promising writers, both in prose and in verse, but your Canadian Fielding, your Canadian Tolstoi, your Canadian Bjornson, has a mighty opportunity awaiting him. I envy him his chances. With your two races, sprung from your two nations, with the competition and rivalry of the great and striving American people on the south, and the sternest face of nature on the north, the novelist of Canada begins with a scene of sublime breadth and elevation. May our great writer come soon! Among the proper foundations of your pride may there be that of having fostered and built up a great Canadian literature. And if I dare presume to say a word to the people of Canada, it will be this: "Look forward to the good end of some day possessing a literature that will be yours only, and yet hold its own with the literatures of the world; prepare for it, legislate for it, do nothing to impede it; make it sure that when your Walter Scott comes, when your Robert Burns comes, he will be as proud of Canada as Canada must be proud of him."

THE McGREEVY RELEASE.

A Provincial Doctor's Opinion of the Government's Action.

Dr. F. C. Mewburn, of Toronto, wrote as follows to the Mail and Empire re the McGreevy and Connolly affair:

Sir—Sir Charles H. Tupper has evidently been impressed, as I have, with the saying of that genial old sceptic Montague: "Man cheats himself even more than he is cheated. Gullibility springs eternal in the human breast. In the evolution of the human race other feelings and beliefs wither away like organs which have lost their use. This alone remains with us an unreliable heritage." Surely never were truer words written. Does not Sir Charles H. Tupper verify them to the letter? He is so far filled with gullibility that he firmly believes, in spite of facts and convincing evidence, which are both so plain that the wayfaring man cannot go astray—yes, he truly believes that the government did not release Connolly and McGreevy for political reasons only. Well, sir, if a man believes that he will believe anything. Was it ever known that men convicted of a base felony were ever released having served less than one-quarter of their time; and were they ever released on medical certificates without being sent to the jail infirmary, and trying what regular exercise and regulated diet would do? I do not doubt the medical certificates, that is disease of the middle ear and kidney disease, but I do find it hard to reconcile the extreme gravity of these cases with the fact of the banquet so attended by these men. I have some knowledge of these two very serious complaints, and I do know that the seclusion of the Ottawa jail was a safer place than the dining room. Good rich food, champagne, cigars and great excitement, these are enough to kill anyone laboring under middle ear and aggravated kidney disease. The Mail and Empire says there was an error of judgment. There was, and it was in not adding hard labor to the sentence. Sir Hibbert says Mr. Mulock brought the matter up in the house, and received such a dressing that no one has ever ventured again on such a step. Well, sir, I have, and I tell Sir Hibbert what everyone (except the extreme gullibles) knows, that these two men were released for political reasons only. They were only part of the thieving gang, and they could, and no doubt would, if not released, let out some very unpleasant matters. The release of these felons proved one thing, to rob the country for party purposes is no crime. The Connolly and McGreevy release was one of the most outrageous acts that any government ever committed, and all and everyone, no matter who they were, that assisted in it, were particeps criminis. Some of us who are now old remember that gallant old veteran Sir John Colborne. Can anyone imagine that old soldier, when governor of Upper Canada, signing such a pardon? I hardly think he could. But we can almost hear him say to his ministers, looking them full in the face, "I will see you all d——d first."

WHY GAMBLERS DIE YOUNG.

Suppression of Emotion Disorders Their Nervous Functions.

"It is my theory," said Dr. McNab to the New York Mail and Express "Rambler," "that the professional gambler goes to an early grave simply because of one of the necessities of his business. Statistics will show that gamblers are short-lived as a rule, and the popular idea, I know, is that they kill themselves by late hours and dissipation.

"I disagree with that idea. Professional gamblers shorten their lives by suppressing their emotions. I have the record of 74 typical cases, and they are all wonderfully alike. The study is one of the most interesting of the many I have taken up in the last 20 years.

"A gambler—that is, a man who makes a business of playing cards with an opponent, or a number of opponents, as in poker or whist—gradually falls into the habit of controlling his facial muscles and the muscles of his arms. This, as you probably know, is absolutely essential in a game where the value of a hand may be betrayed by expression or gesture. Beginners invariably exhibit this. I have studied them carefully, and I venture to say that not one man in 50 could, if there was much at stake, help letting the fact be known that he held a high hand—that is, if his opponent were ordinarily observant. With $1000 on the table it would be a cool novice, indeed, who could, in a game of poker, hold four aces or four kings without letting his hand tremble or his face betray some emotion. After the professional gambler has served his apprenticeship, and has become a journeyman, he learns perfectly how to conceal any physical indication of surprise, disappointment or despair—three important factors to his business. This concealment eventually kills him."

PRECIOUS STONES.

The Extent of Discoveries of Gems in the United States Last Year.

An expert in precious stones will publish soon a report for the United States Geological Survey, giving the history of the finding of precious stones in the United States. From this report, says the Boston Globe, it appears that the finding of the diamond in the United States is infrequent and apparently of no commercial importance.

The estimated production of the turquoise, however, during the past year from the mines in the Southwest is about $30,000, and this, on account of the business depression, is far below what the total should have been.

The turquoise alone of all precious stones found in America is regarded as marketable in Europe and America, as the small quantity of other stones found does not seem to warrant the effort to get them out of the mines. The turquoise production of 1892 amounted to $175,000, and that of 1893 $143,000.

Diamonds of some weight and value have been found in the United States, and will be found at intervals in Wisconsin, Michigan and California.

The largest one was found in 1884 at Kohisville, Washington county, Wis. It weighed 24¼ carats and measured ¾x½ x⅛ inch. In Michigan a diamond crystal weighing 17⅛ carats and measuring 13x9x11 millimetres was found last year in Dowagiac county, near Kalamazoo.

The expert states that the rumor which appeared in the press several months ago as to the discovery of brilliant diamonds at Mount Edgecombe, near Sitka, Alaska, was entirely without foundation. The report arose, he says from the remark of a scientific man that diamonds might be found, possibly, because the geological formation of Mount Edgecombe presented some resemblances to that of the South African diamond fields.

Rubies are found in North Carolina. One was found recently on the Reeves farm, near Franklin, in Macon county, from ten to twelve millimetres in diameter and from two to five millimetres in thickness. This ruby was excellent in color. Exploration and prospecting show gravel to exist and to contain rubies throughout the entire valley, which is three miles long and half a mile wide. This find in North Carolina is thought to be a valuable one.

In Montana the sapphire has been found in alluvial gold washings, near the Judith river, in Choteau county. These stones are much bluer than any previously found, and, in fact, are as blue as the Cingalese stones.

A new district for true emeralds was discovered by a miner of mica, about fourteen miles from Bakersville, Mitchell county, Cal., on Big Tree Mountain, at an elevation of 5000 feet. They were found in a vein of pegemite five feet wide. In size they are over ten millimetres wide by five to twelve millimetres long. They are hexagonal in shape, clear and of good color.

NELSON.
Nelson Miner

The Hall Mines and its works have absorbed all the available teams in the place. A short time ago there was a dearth of firewood. Now there is plenty—on the beach—but there are no teams to haul it up to the town where stand gazing at it, and offering up earnest prayers to Billy Wilson to spare one.

Late last night a rich discovery was reported from Seven Mile Creek, about four miles beyond the Ray of Hope. No further details are to hand. It is possible that this may be the same find as that reported from the head of Yuill creek.

Three prospectors following the South Slocan mineral belt up Lemon creek traced it over the divide and located three claims on the head waters of a stream flowing eastwards into the Kootenay lake or outlet. The claims are the Swiss, Highland Chief and Berne, located respectively by Charles Faas, W. K. Richmond and Max Heckerman. The stream they struck on crossing the divide was one of the sources of Yuill creek. The ore in these claims is said to be free milling gold quartz. From the summit of the divide the Silver King tramway line was visible.

It is reported that the charge for treatment at the Pilot Bay smelter has been considerably reduced and in consequence a good deal more ore is offered. This will be a great boon to many owners of the smaller and lower grade claims.

We clip the following telegram from a coast paper: 'New York, Oct. 25.—Henry M. Stanley, on his return here from a trip to the Canadian Northwest, said in an interview to-day: 'I visited the mines in the Kootenay country between the Canadian Pacific line and the United States boundary. Part of these mines are in the United States. The gold production is wonderful. I think the mines will be second only to those in South Africa.'' We always believed Stanley to be a fakir. This proves it. He never visited the mining country at all.

At a sheriff's sale on Thursday 500 cords of wood lying at Pilot Bay were sold for 40 cents a cord.

Mr. W. S. Drewry and his party finished this season's work last week. They were not stopped this year by bad weather, but were cut off at the very best part of the season by the exhaustion of the vote. It is to be hope that the survey office will give the public some idea of what is being done this year. Mr. Drewry left for the coast on Monday via Spokane and Seattle.

John A. Turner has purchased from John Tolson two lots at the corner of Silica and Josephine streets, the purchase price being $450 cash.

A contract for pipe, Pelton wheel and all connections, has been awarded to the B. C. Iron Works by the electric light company, the machinery to be in operation by December 15th. The contract price is $2400.

The prospects are sufficiently promising at the Daisy and Black Fox on the south fork of Kaslo creek, where Bob Yuill is doing development work for Porter Bros., to justify the running of a lower level tunnel, which it is estimated will be about 250 feet in length before the ore vein is reached.

David Black is in Nelson from the White Grouse mountain country. He says the trail is completed from the townsite of Davie to the foot of the mountain, and that the Copper King group of claims has passed into the hands of a syndicate able to develop them. Nothing, however, will be done until spring.

It is expected that trains on the Nelson & Fort Sheppard railway will be running the fore part of next week to the new station, which is a mile from the business part of Nelson. The statement that the difficulties between that road and the Canadian Pacific had been adjusted never had any basis, as the Canadian Pacific lays claim to the entire water front of Nelson, a claim that should be fought to the end by the provincial government. But will it be?

Word comes from Kaslo of the development of a very valuable stike of rich ore on the Cariboo claim in the Best basin. It is of mixed gray copper and galena, and there is said to be from 18 to 20 inches of clean ore, which assays away up in the hundreds. The new discovery, it is claimed, makes the property, with two or three possible exceptions, the most valuable in the Slocan mining division.

On Monday a rich strike was made in the stopes of No. 2 tunnel in the Josie mine, at Rossland. The ore is decomposed and estimated at about one hundred tons, which will run eight ounces in gold. The company has now 35 men at work in the mine.

In Ainsworth district ten years ago a claim was located, which is now known as the Noble Three. Just enough work was done on it annually to hold it, and nowhere was there a hole down to exposed ten feet. This summer the owners, Charley Olsen and Alec McLeod, offered George Harmon a one-third interest if he would sink a shaft 50 feet, starting on the deepest hole on the claim. The offer was taken up, and now the shaft is down 25 feet, in ore that assays 335 ounces of silver to the ton. The ore body is five feet wide, the pay streaks being stringers. The Noble Three is situated between the No. 1 and the Spokane mines.

On Wednesday the longest wire rope tramway on the Pacific coast commenced carrying ore successfully from the Silver King mine to Nelson, a distance of four and a half miles. The tramway delivered over ten tons an hour while in operation, and when run steadily will bring down 100 tons a day of ten hours. The ore is run from the mines to the ore bins at the upper end of the tramway over a 780-foot surface tram in cars having a capacity of 1200 pounds each. The buckets on the main tramway hold about 125 pounds of ore, and each bucket makes two round trips in ten hours. Four men fill the buckets at the upper end, and three others are required to operate the tramway. The ore bins are connected by telephone. The management expect to have the smelter in operation by January 1st. If its operation is a success, the plant will be increased so as to permit the working of custom ores. In fact, it is claimed that the works at Nelson will be the largest and most complete that are likely to be erected in British Columbia.

Through attaching the outport of Revelstoke to the port of New Westminster, it is impossible to tell by the customs returns the value of the ore shipped out of Kootenay district. There was no need of detaching Revelstoke from the port of Nelson, and it would not have been done had we a member of parliament who had an eye singly to his own district. As it is all the ore shipped from Slocan district by the Canadian Pacific railway is credited to the exports from the port of New Westminster; but nothwithstanding this the value of the ore credited as exports from the port of Nelson for the month of October aggregates $180,730, divided as follows: Gold, $117,615; silver, $34,801; lead, $15,106; copper, $12,148. The bullion was valued at $44,917 and the ore (2985 tons) at $135,813.

A good story comes from Pilot Bay regarding the location of a couple of claims on Hooker creek. The discoverer of the ledge was somewhat elated over his find, and before staking it out took a trip down to Pilot Bay. While there he imbibed just enough liquid inspiration to make him talkative, and during one of his talks he let out just enough information regarding his find to put some of the boys on. During the night a party started for the find to locate it. They arrived early the next day and staked what they supposed was the find for themselves, then generously staked an extension for the discoverer. On their way back they met the discoverer and told him what they had done. He was nettled, of course, but took it in good part. He proceeded to the ground, and on going over it carefully found that the extension located for him was on the vein, while the location they made for themselves was on floor. He had the laugh on them, and he and his partners are making preparations to work the ground, it being about a mile down Hooker Creek from the California and Wells & Fargo, the two claims that were bonded this week to Nelson parties for $40,000.

The district to the east of Pilot Bay is coming to the front. George Heffer, Emmett Todd, M. Johnson, and George Colwell have been working two claims, the California and Wells & Fargo, on the head of Hooker Creek, this summer, and a short time ago had 64 sacks of ore, about two and a half tons, packed down to the smelter at Pilot Bay for a trial test. The ore went 177 ounces in Silver, 47 per cent. lead, and 3½ per cent. copper to the ton, and after paying packing and treating charges netted the owners $113 a ton. This week the claims were bonded to Messrs. Farley and Crittenden for $40,000, a good sized cash payment being made. These gentlemen have sent men and supplies up to the claims and will work them all winter. Charles Sawyer being in charge as foreman. The claims are distant about fourteen miles from the head of Crawford Bay.

NANAIMO.
From Our Own Correspondent.

Nanaimo, Nov. 6.—Mr. C. A. Forde, of Riverside farm, Chilliwack, and Miss Susie Helena Hall, of Sumas, were married in this city on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. Stertans, sister of the bride. Rev. D. A. McRae performed the ceremony, and only the most intimate friends of both parties were present. The newly married couple left for their home at Chilliwack yesterday.

Messrs. Hurst & Bradley, contractors for the new court house, have been granted an extension of three months to complete the work.

Rev. Mr. Gunton, Baptist minister, was tendered a reception by his congregation on Tuesday night.

The Temperance party, although they have applied for permission to furnish the city with a constable, are not anxious that their offer should be accepted.

Several prospecting parties have returned from Alberni bringing news of several news strikes there, and some very good samples of gold bearing rock have been brought down by them.

KASLO.
Nelson Tribune.

Bridge carpenters are engaged in framing the first of the Howe truss bridges at the railway material yard. There are three of these structures on the Kaslo & Slocan railway, which will be framed and have the various bolts and castings fitted in the yard at Kaslo. The various parts will then be forwarded to the sites in their order.

G. A. Keefer, inspecting engineer for the provincial government, went over the Kaslo & Slocan railway on Tuesday last in company with representatives of the contractors and the company. It is understood that his inspection proved generally satisfactory, although, of course, no formal expression of his conclusions was made.

Great Northern railway traffic agents have informed Kaslo merchants that the higher officials of their road have notified the Canadian Pacific authorities that Kaslo will be given the same preferential freight rates from the east that is given to Nakusp by the latter road.

It is said that concentrates to the value of $20,000 per month are being shipped from the concentrator at Three Forks. The Nakusp & Slocan railway has been compelled to put on an extra train to handle the ores which are being sent forward from various mines.

NEW DENVER
The Nelson Miner.

M. Heckerman and W. K. Richmond have just returned from Springer Creek with samples of quartz containing free gold, taken from some locations made by them on the divide between the Slocan and Kootenay slopes opposite Nelson. They located four claims, one on the Slocan slope, and three on the Kootenay side, apparently on the head waters of Yuill Creek, and it is by way of that creek that these claims and several others located on the head waters of Lemon Creek will most easily be reached. An assay of rock showed 15 ounces of gold besides a little silver, the exact figures I cannot obtain as Heckerman & Pass who had the assay made, started this morning for the claims and took the returns with them.

FROM JASPAR PASS.

A United States Field Naturalist Returns to Edmonton.

J. Alden Loring, field naturalist to the United States department of agriculture, returned from a trip up the McLeod river and to the Jaspar pass accompanied by D. E. Noyes, who acted as guide. Mr. Loring gave the Bulletin the following information regarding his trip: "My object in visiting the locality was to make a biological survey of the country and collect a series of animals that would not be found elsewhere, in which I was very successful, taking in all over three hundred specimens and filling a journal with valuable information. Although most of the time was taken up with my work, I managed to get in a few hunts and shot two black and two cinamon bears. The rest of the party killed two cinnamon and two grizzly bears, two caribou and a moose, besides a lynx and quantities of small game, such as grouse, ducks and rabbits. There were seven in the party, George Gagnon, Walter Bisson, Samuel A. Dirr, Willie Shannon (better known as Texas Willie), acted as cook, Dan E. Noyes and his son, Dan E., jr., acted as guides, and no better could have been selected. Their familiarity with the country enabled them to place both the prospector and hunter on their grounds without delay, and one always profited by following their advice. They spared neither pains nor money in making their guests comfortable and guided us through the muskeg and over the fallen timber without injuring a horse. Then thinking of visiting the Jasper pass and vicinity will do well by engaging their services. Our trip occupied just two months and a half, during which time we travelled over eight hundred miles besides numerous hunting trips of fifteen or twenty miles. The first part of the trip was very wet, but the weather afterwards were all that could be asked for. Several snowstorms hindered my work considerably. The scenery in the Jaspar pass is simply grand. The mountains on either side rise for thousands of feet. At the head of the Maligne river we found a canyon fully three hundred feet deep and not more than fifteen feet wide, through which the water rushes and boils for more than a mile. Near by are several hot sulphur springs which will undoubtedly be of much value when the country is opened up. The country shows signs of great mineral wealth, which needs only prospecting to unveil. We found hay meadows on the tops of the mountains, while in the valleys the grass was very luxuriant. At Big Eddy, on the McLeod river, C. T. Cowan and H. B. Spratt joined us and came down with the party. All in all the trip was a grand success, and the only thing I regret was that cold weather and prospects of storms compelled us to leave. From here I have been ordered to Washington to make out my report on the work."

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the World's Fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's Fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

A very funny young fellow named William Riggs thought it would be fun to scare four young women who were in the habit of riding by moonlight on their wheels over the smooth roads in the vicinity of Delhi, N. Y. He had made a long white costume and a hideous mask. Mounted on stilts he appeared twelve feet high, and he waved his ghastly arm and in a sepulchral tone moaned, "Beware!" One of the girls fell off her wheel in a faint, two of them broke all world's records for the distance, but Miss Grace Holden, a 17-year-old beauty from Jersey City, who is spending the summer at Delhi, gracefully dismounted from her "bike," picked up a large stone, and as she threw it, said: "If you are a ghost this will go through you, and if you are a foolish, masquerading boy, it will hurt you." And that is how it happens that Willie Riggs has three broken ribs.

THE COUNCIL OF WOMEN

A Chapter on the Origin, Development, Scope and Aims of the Organization.

The Programme Prepared for To-Morrow's Meeting of the Victoria Council.

The question is frequently asked, "What is the National Council of Women, and what good does it do?" Now that there are two flourishing local councils in British Columbia, one in Victoria and one in Vancouver, it may not prove amiss to state for the benefit of those unconnected with the movement what are the general lines and objects of this council.

In the first place the National Council was partially the outcome of the Women's Congress Auxiliary which took place two years ago in Chicago, and to a certain extent it was the great success of a similar organization on a smaller scale started some twelve years ago in Scotland by Lady Aberdeen, which caused her to be elected president of the International Council of Women. Owing to the energy of Lady Aberdeen, Canada has now a national council of her own, with headquarters at Ottawa, and local branches all over the Dominion. Each local council, while it is represented in the central body, retains its perfect independence, as do all societies affiliating with it, and any women's organization is admitted to federation provided the executive committee of the council are satisfied with the nature of its work.

It is a non-sectarian body, neither religious, philanthropical nor educational in itself, and yet embracing all societies of women whether run on educational, philanthropical or religious lines, and being essentially a broad-minded, liberal movement for the common good of humanity, and not an aggressive reform movement in extenso, its object is to promote unity of purpose and strength of force together with one great aim always in view, namely the amelioration of the condition of women.

It does not deal with politics, nor ask for the right to vote, nor does it urge the modern dress reform; but nevertheless the scope of the council is unlimited, for it includes every branch of moral reform, and can take up any question pertaining to women's work and aims in life. At the annual general meetings, and also at the local quarterly meetings, papers on women's work are read and debated on, and committees are appointed to investigate and deal with specific matters in hand. The main feature of the movement is in short to draw all women workers together for mutual help, sympathy and benefit, for in the council all are on the same plane.

That the National Council has already accomplished a large amount of good work in Canada is undeniable, and the very existence of such a widespread movement amongst women points to the fact that they are speedily coming to the realization of how vast are the responsibilities which each individual in this world necessarily incurs.

Ten years ago people were much more content to lead a vegetable life, troubling their heads but little over what are now considered to be the burning questions of the day. There was a stifling air of "laissez-aller" in those times, and a strong tendency towards the suppression and ridiculing of all women's higher aims and ambitions; but in this fin-de-siecle much of that is changed, and the ability of the gentler sex to cope with and successfully master many of the deeper problems of life is becoming an established and recognized fact.

What led to the present state of affairs, and how it all came about is a long and involved story. Possibly it was due in the first instance to an irrepressible feeling of restlessness, a spirit of dissatisfaction which crept into some women's souls and impelled them to think for themselves. They saw sadness and sorrow and suffering surrounding them on every hand, and they began to question "Why?" for the fair pictures of life drawn to them as girls, were frequently such a pitiful contrast to the realities known by them as women. What wonder, then, that full of a wider knowledge of the manifold requirements of their poorer, weaker or sadder sisters, good women, brave women, women whose hearts were full of the steadfast love of humanity, commenced to work in earnest for the education and benefaction of those who so sorely needed their help?

The whys and wherefores, however, matter but little now; the strong foothold which the National Council has obtained in Canada points out clearly that women are momentarily growing more acutely conscious of how much there is for one and all of them to do. No one will deny that each woman has her specially appointed work in this world; her sphere may be large or small, the toil arduous or light, for conditions vary, but the principle always remains the same, and starting from this standpoint, namely of fully admitting their responsibility towards womankind, what is further necessary to the carrying out of their schemes of amelioration?

In the first place the foundation of all women's work in the council must be enthusiasm; nothing worthy the name of work can ever be accomplished without this adjunct. Enthusiasm leading up to concentration—and concentration developed by the exercise of will power. These three splendid qualifications are indispensable to the person who in all sincerity strives to fulfill her highest duties.

Enthusiasm—what is it, and what good does it do? Primarily, it is a deeply rooted sense of the all-importance of the object in view, and secondly, it induces a superabundant flow of heart-whole devotion to some specific cause. It carries the worker along with a power undaunted by obstacles or impediments, it smoothes the rough places and inculcates a strength to fearlessly do what is right, in spite of opposing forces. Further than that, it not only stimulates the possessor of it, but it insensibly affects all those who come in contact with it. Intangible and indefinable, it is nevertheless one of the chief mainsprings of successful work, and those inspired by its vitalizing power are often enabled to translate into concrete form what would otherwise have been but vague brain-fancies.

Habitual repression of the emotional nature must necessary imply a diminution of the executive faculties, and we wonder how anyone of a totally impassive temperament can ever manage to accomplish anything satisfactorily. Unenthusiastic natures! How much they lose in life, for to exist always at the dead level of inanimation may be to appear imperturbable, but it is also to be hopelessly useless.

Once, having gained the point of feeling a genuine heartfelt interest in our "work," we come to what is the essence of the National Council, namely, concentration;—for no sooner do women become impregnated with enthusiasm in a particular matter, than they involuntarily begin to focus their powers upon its needs and requirements. Here at once arises the necessity for active concentration. As I have just pointed out, enthusiasm is the first requisite, but enthusiasm is too diffusive in itself, it needs direction. One of the modern crying evils in the carrying out of "good works" lies in the illogical indiscrimination of ways and means used for the propagation of a worthy venture; but when women learn to bring all their strength of mind and sympathy to bear upon one particular matter, until such time as it shall be successfully accomplished, concentrating all their efforts of brain and heart and tongue and hands to the fulfilment of a definite purpose, then, and then alone, will results be proportionate to needs, and moreover not only must concentration be used with regard to individual faculties, but having reduced their personal attributes to a oneness of aim, they must go farther afield and seek to carry this system of concentration into larger spheres.

This is one of the main objects of the National Council, for the greater the undertaking the greater the demand for unity of force. If each individual woman enthusiastically felt the overwhelming needs of many who are to-day living in sin, poverty, and unspeakable wretchedness in our very midst, and feeling this (mind, I say actually feeling it, not merely imagining that she does so), would concentrate her energies upon the relieving of the sick and sorrowful, and in so doing would combine her soul's efforts with the efforts of other women in one vast concentrated work of alleviation—why, who could fathom the gigantic benefits that would therefrom accrue to civilization?

Now the National Council of Women is essentially a concentrated movement, for the workers in nearly all the societies in Canada are represented amongst its numbers, and what is the result? We have women of all creeds and nationalities, belonging to hundreds of different charitable organizations, all laboring together in one huge concentrated determination to gain certain specific ends. The council is doing a noble work, and has given proof in abundnace of its possession of enthusiasm leading up to the development of a concentrated executive force in dealing with vital questions.

Now there is still another qualification of an earnest worker in the council to which I would refer, and that is the refinement of concentration by means of the exercise of will power. In many women the will is utterly uncultivated, or it may be warped and twisted through through unwise use, or again misdirected in its strength. This is greatly to be deplored, for the unassailable motive power of the will when actively used in the right direction is of incalculable benefit to womankind. Nothing can be done unless they will to do it, and although enthusiasm may lay the foundation, and concentration build up a solid structure thereon, unless they exercise discriminating and intelligent will power in the carrying out of their work, nothing substantial will emanate from it.

It is an old established law of nature that disused faculties become impaired, and the will is no exception to this rule. Every time we exercise our wills aright in small matters we develop them for good, and then when the demand comes, it may be in a great and serious form, our well trained will power cannot fail us, but must undoubtedly carry us triumphantly across the shoals and quicksands of trial. But, alas! for those who through a weak self-indulgence fail to educate their strength of will to a standard of comparative excellence; for when an occasion arises requiring a vigorous use of will power to grapple with the superlative issues of an all-important matter, they will find that the ability to cope with the situation is eminently lacking by reason of their vacillating unstable proclivities which are the outcome of culpable neglect to cultivate a proper firm determination of mind.

THE LOCAL COUNCIL.

To-morrow the first annual meeting of the Victoria and Vancouver Island council will be held at the city hall, and the agenda shows a large number and variety of subjects to be dealt with. Commencing at 10 o'clock, the morning session will be devoted to business matters, president's opening address, election of officers, etc. At 12 the series of resolutions sent in by the local councils and by the executive committee will be taken up, and their consideration will continue through the afternoon session, which is to commence at 1:30. The resolutions deal with the Chinese girl slavery, Sabbath observance, the liquor laws, eligibility of women for school trusteeship, systematic giving for religious and philanthropic purposes, homes for aged and indigent women, smoking by boys under sixteen, young boys going into saloons and places of ill repute as newsboys or messengers, compulsory attendance at school, and the establishment of kindergarten departments in the public schools. Mrs. Jenkins will read a paper on the Young Men's Christian Association; Mrs. Alexander Davie one on "The Responsibility of Women in Civic Affairs," and Miss Lawson one on "Compulsory Education." In the evening a public meeting will be held in the Victoria theatre, at which the Countess of Aberdeen will deliver an address on the scope and aims of the Women's Council.

THE HYAMS' MURDER TRIAL

The Case Proceeding Phenomenally Low Water in the St. Lawrence River.

Railroad Servants Prosecuted for Swindling—Cases at Winnipeg Assizes.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—One of the most important crown witnesses in the Hyams trial to-day was Undertaker Hamnhrey. He described the position of the body and declared that the hands of one of the Hyams brothers was bleeding from abrasions. He said Hyams explained how the accident happened and attributed the cause to a weight falling off the hook in the elevator shaft.

Following is the Toronto Evening Telegram's special cable to-day: The number of emigrants to the Dominion of Canada during the month of October, according to the official returns, was 1767. The number of emigrants to Canada during the ten months ended 31st October was 21,215.

The Canadian horse Joe W., offered for sale at Aldridge's repository yesterday, and withdrawn at 200 guineas, was subsequently sold at that figure.

The executive of the Canadian Marine Association met yesterday and appointed a deputation to proceed to Ottawa and urge that work be commenced on the Morrisburg, Welland and Beauharnois canals, which will prevent navigation next year being hindered and delayed the same as this year.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—The water in the St. Lawrence canal is so low at Cardinal and Cornwall that navigation is impeded and will be stopped altogether if the manufacturers are not immediately prohibited from using it. Many thousands of bushels of wheat are lying aboard the boats at these points, over due at Montreal, for transhipment to Europe. Business men are protesting bitterly. The Corn Exchange has passed a resolution asking that the use of water for manufacturing purposes be prohibited.

Three Rivers, Que., Nov. 7.—The hearing of the charges of conspiracy laid by the Canadian Pacific Railway company against Conductor E. B. Camp, bell and Ticket Clerk and Operator Ouellette took place this afternoon before Magistrate Desilets. The private prosecutors were represented by Mr. Lafleur, of Montreal, and Mr. Oliviej, of Three Rivers, the prisoners being defended by Mr. Cook, of this place.

The specific charges were that certain tickets which had been sold on the Grand Piles train by the prisoner Ouellette were not stamped, were collected on the train by the conductor, the prisoner Campbell, and not cancelled by punching as required by the rules of the company, but returned to Ouelette for re-sale. According to the evidence adduced on behalf of the prosecutors it was proven conclusively that a private arrangement existed between the conductor and clerk to divide the proceeds of such tickets re-sold. The company claimed that the tickets in question were only once accounted for. The evidence for the crown was so overwhelming that both prisoners pleaded guilty and elected to be dealt with summarily.

His Honor Judge Desilets remanded the accused for sentence until Friday next, the 8th inst. The maximum penalty for the offence is seven years at hard labor in the provincial penitentiary.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 7.—At the assizes yesterday the trial of Wm. Farr for arson and attempted murder was proceeded with. The evidence was mostly circumstantial and tended to establish the guilt of the prisoner. The testimony of Mabel Farr, the thirteen year old daughter of the prisoner, gave some color to the contention of the defence that the fire was started by a woman in man's clothing. In addressing the jury at the opening of the case Crown Prosecutor Howell promised to produce letters written by Farr to Miss Robinson after his escape from jail, which would show the motive for the crime of which he is charged.

Rat Portage, Nov. 7.—A serious accident occurred at a mine owned by Wm. McCarthy, about two miles from town, by which Edward Brereton, a miner, was instantly killed and Wm. McCarthy had his arm badly broken and was injured about the back and legs, but not fatally. The cause of the accident was a premature explosion.

GREAT RACING DONE.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 7.—Over four thousand people to-day witnessed one of the finest races ever rowed over any course. This was the double scull, mile and a half with turn, three miles in all. The starters were Bubear and Barry, English; Rogers and Teemer, Americans. At the three quarter flag the Americans had a boat length of a lead, which they retained for a considerable distance, when the Englismen began to crowd them. About ten lengths from the finish line Teemer gave out entirely and Rogers had to pull the boat over the line by himself. The Englishmen immediately took the lead, winning in 17.40, lowering the world's record for double sculls.

The race won the championship of the world for the Englishmen and a purse of $1000.

The next most important event was a triangular three mile race for positions in the championship race for the Richard K. Fox cup and $1000. The starters were Hanlan, Teemer, Gaudaur, Peterson and Rogers. Gaudaur leaf from the very start, pulling a steady stroke of 38. Teemer quit when a mile and a half of the course had been rowed, leaving Gaudaur and Rogers to win by easy strokes in 19.41. This will give Gaudaur and Rogers positions in tomorrow's great race against Bubear and Haines.

There will be a meeing of the Triangle Lacrosse club at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow evening for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the club for the past season and also considering the question of reorganization. A good attendance is therefore desired.
